ABSTRACT

I can show, with my “Wave Theory of the Mind”, that incoherent brain waves interfere and create low amplitude, low energy brain waves cause a bed of depression and mental illness and this, in poor people, this bed of depression can be influenced by higher amplitude financial anxiety waves causing a worsening of their condition. A citation with a $25 dollar fine plus “costs” over 6 times more than the fine would do this. Then a vicious threat of arrest warrant if they did not pay up, would cause a high amplitude peak in anxiety which could trigger irrational violence or suicide.

Incoherent Brain Waves, the Bed of Depression

The outside world can cause incoherent brain waves, that interfere, causing low amplitude, low energy brain waves to appear at lower frequencies. Lower energies would mean that they have a lower probability of exciting a neuron into action which forms a bed of depression and mental illness, easily influenced by a sharp peak in high amplitude random anxiety.

An extremely high anxiety shock, made of high amplitude, high energy random brain waves, could change the depression bed, in a random way, either violence or suicide or just getting worse. The anxiety shock would be the trigger and not the reason.

Depression and mental illness are caused by lower frequencies (subconscious level) and make people feel very low self esteem, and can be easily influenced by irrational thoughts that they hear, like conspiracy theories and become cult members, or scammed or being ripped off, easy to fool. They want their life to have meaning, but a anxiety shock, like the magistrates give, has no meaning so this shock is interpreted randomly, violence or suicide, take your pick.

My “Wave Theory of the Mind” explains Mental Illness and how Anxiety Peaks can Influence It

There has been a 25% increase in mass shootings and a 25% increase in suicide deaths, and 250 have thought about it for every suicide death. There are twice as many suicide deaths as there are from gun violence. Depression is rampant.

In my paper “A Wave Theory of the Mind”, depression and mental illness is caused by incoherent brain waves, at lower frequencies (subconscious level) which interfere (crests of the wave correspond to the troughs of the wave causing their amplitudes to become small with low energy) These incoherent waves are very influenced by many higher amplitude waves from the outside world, like conspiracies, misinformation, high anxiety shocks, which can turn the person into violence or suicide.

Financial anxiety shocks are particularly influential among the poor who cannot afford the finances of it. One particular financial shock comes from the magistrates, government officials, who charge over 6 times the fine and anxiety shock them with a threat of an arrest warrant if they don't pay up. This anxiety shock could randomly lead to violence or suicide, take your pick.

Other anxiety shocks can also be the trigger, cut off in traffic, misinformation, constant bullying, etc. The trigger is not the reason. The reason is the building up of the depression bed. Don't let depression get you down.

My theory has a method that would make the mind coherent and strong

Incoherent brain waves do not always lead to depression, it can lead to irrational thinking, talked into a cult, believing in ridiculous conspiracies, QANON eg, election denial, climate change denial, too many to mention. These are mental illnesses.

In my papers [1,2], I describe a method to create coherence in the mind and leads to a rational strong mind that enhances your placebo (the ability of the body to cure itself without medicine) to cure all your ills and never be sick again.

My method (only 10 minutes a day) will create a strong mind, immune to illness, rational and logical and you will be in total control. Otherwise, everything will be left to chance.

My Dream for Humanity

Most people have strong minds and can fend off incoherency from the outside, but not illnesses like cancer, I'm afraid.

My method will rid the world of illness and fear. My wish is that all be happy and well and my wish can actually come true, but it is totally up to you.
